Mr. Francis, for the defence, said he thought the jury would be of opinion that a very serious charge had been very hastily brought against a deserving officer who after ten years service in the police force was holding the position of acting sergeant and was deemed sufficiently trustworthy to be placed in the charge of an important Station. It had been elicited from Inspector Mathieson that prisoner was never given any chance to give any explanation in the matter. Inspector Mathieson found that the boats had been removed, and on making enquiries he was told they had been sold by prisoner. He said it never occurred to him to suspect prisoner of any dishonesty. He brought the matter to the notice of Inspector Herspool, who referred it to the Acting Captain Superintendent, and prisoner was brought before the Magistrate at once. Inspector Mathieson said that when before the Acting Superintendent, prisoner admitted selling the bests and said he had the money marked and put on one side. resolution." It was also stated in the same paper that on the 2 'nd of August Hallett sent a distinguished officer to call upon Captain Selwyn to offer him the usual satisfaction accorded by one gentleman to another, but even this did not fill the measure of Colonel Hughes Hallett's willingness to make reparation. His envoy was further instructed to tell Captain Selwyn that Colonel Hughes Hallott was prepared to go away with Miss Beatrice Selwyn and to enable Mrs. Hughes Hallett to obtain a divorce, in which case Colonel Hughes Hallett asserted his entire willingness to marry Miss Selwyn and to allow Miss Selwyn's advisers to settle her money upon her in any way they wished. This arrangement Colonel Hughes Hallett felt himself bound in honour to propose. These proposals, as well of satisfaction as of reparation Captain C. Selwyn received in silence. The only proposal he agreed to was that, in the interests of the two ladies chiefly concerned, the whole affair should be kept as secret as posrace over the outside course, which was post- sible. A PAUPER'S DYING REQUEST.

An amusing and yet pathetic incident in what P.M. the poet Gray called "the short and simple annals of the poor," is told by Mr. John J. R. Micklejohn, one of the Inspectors of the Poor, at Prince Bismarck has declared that Signor Lerwick, Shetland Islands. He says that some revising the proofs. This work will contain England and Italy have already come to an came under the notice of the Board. She was extremely ill, and it did not look likely that she would long need care of any kind. She did not reside on the mainland, but on a small island a few miles distant, and there being no parochial institutions in that place, Barbara necessarily occupied the position of a pauper living out. The trouble from which she suffered dated back many years. In better and more prosperous days she had in some way laid the foundation for Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and out of this had sprung other complaints as age and bodily in-

Barbara was not ignorant, albeit she had fallen into poverty. In earlier life she somehow obtained the advantage of a fair education, and this added to native shrewdness, enabled her to use good judgment in respect to her own situation and state of health. Although she had long suffered from asthma and a bronchial affection. Barbara was wise enough to see that these allments arose from the disordered stomach and probable that her disease began as others do, with the usual symptoms: headaches, bad breath, the faintness at the pit of the stomach, loss of sleep, coated tongue, dall eyes, bad tast in the mouth, &c., and finally became chronic and hopeless through her not being able to find any remedy The Inspector states that she had been under medical treatment for years, but to no effect. In Queen lowing medicines for months: They do me no 2266 good. I am going on from worse to worse. I can endure it no longer. I feel that in a week or two I shall be dead. There is one last request I would make of you: give me a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup; it is my only hope. If it proves a failure and does me no good I will die in peace, and make no more expense to the parish." It seems she had got hold of one of Mother Seigel's Almanacks and read of the great cures wrought by the Syrup in cases like hers. The Board pitied the poor lone woman and 14 catties. granted her petition, believing, however, the Syrup would prove as useless as the other medicines she had already taken. What was their astonishment to find, in the course of a few days, that she had not only been able to get out of bed, but to move about outside the house, and had taken journeys to a considerable distance, and was actually enjoying better health (Taking Cargo and Passengers at through rates than since she was first taken ill. For, although a man may beast the most a Medium ought to know his place, and that it is i ladies and gentlemen waiting. On such an occasion the guests belonged to the highest circle of Spiritualists-they were attended, no doubt, by their friendly Spirits, but these were invisible. Among them, for instance, was the famous Athelstan Kilburn, barrister at law. Forty years ago, Mr. Athelstan Kilbarn became an original member of the first Society for Psychical Research which was founded at Cambridge, having precisely the same objects as Mr. Henry Sidgwick's later association, and was, therefore, probably, established in imitation of it. His friends have long since gone off to practical questions, and some have gone up the ladder and become Bishops, Judges, Q.C.'s. Archdeacons, Deans, Physicians, Quarterly Reviewers, Editors, Professors, Head Musters, Leader Writers, and even Novelists. But Athelstan Kilburn went has sacrificed his ambition and his career.
